

Joshua Hart is a transitioning US Army Military Fixed-Wing Pilot with over 3,000 hours of flight time in a wide variety of rotary and fixed-wing aircraft, including piston, turboprop and turbojet aircraft. He is currently nearing the end of his transition from a unique military experience to the private sector, focused on the promotion of general aviation, strengthening our community of pilots, and improving safety through innovative curriculum.

His aviation career has taken him to nearly every continent in the world, except Antarctica, which he is determined to check off his flying bucket list! He has trained, mentored, and directed over 500 pilots, both new and experienced, throughout his career in global aviation operations.

Understanding general aviation and keeping current on all topics related to our everchanging community and industry is paramount in providing accurate direction for our Association of Flight Educators. Joshua is known for seeing the big picture and bringing fresh thinking to the ways we educate our community. His passion for identifying, setting and executing strategic goals that help fulfill our mission statement will be an asset in determining the direction we take our association in the future.

As a new father of a beautiful baby girl, Joshua understands the impact early access to aviation can have on the next generation, and is a strong advocate for removing traditional barriers to entry and encouraging more women to pursue their passion for aviation. His unique flying background, and deep understanding and knowledge of business operations through both education and entrepreneurship, help make him an ideal candidate for the open SAFE Board Member Position.
